THE VERY BEST OF ALASKA

This multi-dimensional hut to hut snowmobile and dog sled expedition follows the course dictated by the Iditarod Dog Sled Race – a 1,868 km (1,161 miles) annual race through the heart of the Alaskan wilderness.

DAY 1: ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

Staging out of Anchorage, you ease into your surroundings with a 'beginner's run' by snowmobile - a 52 km push (32 miles) toward the first checkpoint on the trail at Yentna Station.

DAYS 2 – 8: IDITAROD TRAIL

Initially riding only in daylight hours, your vehicle handling skills improve each day and therefore allow for deeper explorations into the wilderness. With the remoteness of our camps comes the opportunity to view the fabled Aurora Borealis - a natural coloured light display occurring on a clear cold night. During this adventure try your hand at ice-fishing for rainbow trout, landlocked salmon and northern pike to prepare for a hearty dinner. To truly appreciate the ethereal Alaskan wilderness, take a ski plane flight around Mt McKinley's magnificent peak and over the numerous glaciers surrounding it.

As we ride closer to the mountains we don snow shoes and travel on foot in search of moose, dall sheep, caribou and bald eagles, the local inhabitants of this secluded land.

DAYS 9 – 10: IDITAROD TRAIL / ANCHORAGE

Then, with a pack of dogs under our command, and an Iditarod Trail experienced musher to guide us, we navigate the final leg back to Anchorage with our canine team. Having firsthand experience of participating in a dog sled team, our final stop is at the local kennel allowing us time to spend with these remarkable dogs.
